

Gensler
Design Director – Workplace Technology
San Jose, CA, US

Your Role

Gensler's San Jose studio, an award-winning, international design practice, is seeking a Design Director with exceptional design skills and a portfolio of innovative design solutions with an emphasis on Workplace Design projects.

As a Gensler Design Director, and a member of a studio's leadership team, you will collaborate with talented colleagues to enhance Gensler's culture for design excellence, elevate the quality of design, and achieve recognition for our clients and the firm. You are a mix of strategic and creative, with the ability to create great form while embracing sound business strategy. Use your unique design perspective to lead design teams, develop next-generation talent, bring new approaches to the design process, and help our clients redesign what's possible.

What You Will Do

- Lead the creative efforts of multiple interior design teams on projects from the initial marketing stages through construction and installation
- Develop and own overall design concepts and design presentation strategies
- Build and sustain client relationships; act as the primary design interface with clients, team members, and a wide range of consultants and collaborators, both internal and external
- Mentor and develop Gensler designers; provide creative direction to design teams
- Participate in business development and marketing efforts
- Interaction with clients while representing Gensler at meetings and presentations.

Your Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree from an accredited school of design or architecture
- 15+ years of diverse interiors experience, including experience in a leadership role
- Experience leading design teams through all phases of the design process
- LEED accreditation, preferred
- Strong leadership, communication, and relationship management skills
- Proficient in Revit and other computer design programs (AutoCAD, 3D Studio Max, SketchUp, Photoshop, InDesign and Illustrator)
